

Sun Men

By D.H. Lawrence

Men should shape themselves into a new order of Sunmen.

Each one turning his breast straight to the sun of suns in the center of all things, and from his own little inward sun nodding to the great one.

And receiving from the great one his strength and his promptings; and refusing the pettifogging promptings of human weakness.

And walking each in his own sun-glory with bright legs and uncringing buttocks.
